2. "Pedagogy and Psychology" education.

Objectives of the editorial policy of the journal "Bulletin of Kyzylorda University named after Korkyt Ata. Series Pedagogy and Psychology":

- contribute to improving the quality of scientific research, identifying scientific potential for the implementation of advanced scientific achievements;
- provide scientists and young researchers with the opportunity to publish the results of their research;
- draw attention to the most relevant and promising areas of psychological and pedagogical science;

-ensure collaboration and attract leading domestic and foreign scientists to publications, establish an exchange of opinions between researchers;

- establish and strictly observe the relationships of all parties (editors, authors, reviewers) based on compliance with the requirements for publication ethics;

- the authors are responsible for the factual materials presented in the articles.

Materials that received a negative assessment based on the results of review and rejected by the journal are not published and are not returned to the authors. The editors do not store rejected materials.

3. Ethics requirements for publication in the journal

All parties involved in the process of preparing materials for publication in the journal - authors, expert commission, reviewers, editorial board members - should follow the following requirements for publication ethics.

The editorial board of the journal takes into account the best practices of reputable international journals when analyzing articles. In order to ensure the high quality of scientific publications, the editorial board is working to prevent the use of plagiarism when publishing articles, the use of incorrect data, the provision of unfounded information, etc. The editorial board, as well as persons involved in the publishing work, must comply with the rules and standards of ethics adopted by the international community, and take all necessary measures to prevent such actions. The editors will never support illegal actions (plagiarism, manipulation, distortion) and will make every effort to ensure that such actions are not allowed.

The Editor-in-Chief may consult with members of the editorial board and reviewers when making a decision, who shall be guided by the following rules:

- do not disclose information about the submitted manuscript to anyone except the author, reviewers, potential reviewers, other editorial consultants and, if necessary, the publisher.

- do not discriminate in the evaluation of the authors' submissions;

- not to disclose without necessity information about the materials accepted from authors, except authors, reviewers;

- take reasonable measures to identify and prevent the publication of articles in which the research has been improperly conducted, discourage such violations or knowingly permit such violations;

- consider facts or allegations of improper research behaviour;

- be prepared to publish corrections, clarifications, rebuttals and apologies where necessary.

In the publishing process authors are guided by the following rules:

- to work in full compliance with current legal requirements regarding libel, copyright, legality and plagiarism;

- to provide reliable results of the work done on the original study and an objective discussion of its significance.

- contain enough content to ensure a review of the work. False or deliberate erroneous statements may cause material to be rejected or a published article to be refuted;

- submitting the manuscript simultaneously to another edition is considered immoral and improper. The author must not submit to the magazine an article previously published in other publications;

- guarantee the complete originality of the submitted material. In the case of using works or statements of other authors, appropriate bibliographic references or excerpts are provided;

- Avoid plagiarism in any form. The article must have at least 80% uniqueness of the text for publications.

- The article is not considered plagiarism, provided that the author(s) refer to their own research work and the citation level of their scientific work does not exceed 20%.

- follow the rules of autocitation (self-citation), namely: if the elements of the material were previously published in another article, including in the journal Biological Sciences, the author must refer to the most previous studies. Authors are recommended to observe the degree of self-citation within 0-10% .

- the number of authors of the article should not exceed 5 people;

- disclose in their works information about funding, as well as the presence of third-party interests that may be perceived as having influenced the results or interpretation of their manuscript.

- informing the responsible editors in the scientific areas of the journal about a significant error or inaccuracy in the work and ensuring constant contact with the editors of the journal to remove or correct the article.

- articles of members of the editorial board should not exceed 1 article in each issue;

- the number of articles by one author in each issue of the journal should not exceed 2 (one) articles written separately and / or jointly.

4. Expert opinion and review of scientific articles submitted to the editorial office

Expert opinion and review of manuscripts of scientific articles for publication in the journal "Bulletin of the Korkyt Ata Kyzylorda University. Pedagogy and Psychology series" is carried out in order to maintain a high scientific and theoretical level of publication and selection of the most significant and relevant (promising) scientific works.

The expert Commission has the right to reject the materials and require the author(s) to bring them in accordance with the requirements for scientific articles.

In order to ensure the quality of published materials and copyright compliance, all received materials are checked for the presence of borrowings. The program is checked by the responsible employee of the university - the "root administrator of the system", and only after that the article is sent for review.

Authors submitting their articles for publication in the journal "Bulletin of the Korkyt Ata Kyzylorda University. Pedagogy and Psychology series", thereby express their consent to the publication of the article, to the placement of the meta-data of the article (title, Full name authors and their place of affiliation, annotations, keywords, bibliographic list) in open access on the journal's website on the Internet, to transfer the text of the article (including references, bibliographic information, etc.) to persons and organizations to whom the provision of this information is mandatory, or to other persons in order to ensure the possibility of quoting the publication and increase the citation index of authors and the journal, as well as confirm that the submitted articles have not been published in other journals and have not been submitted for publication to other journals.

The editorial board keeps records of the passage of expert evaluation and peer review procedures for manuscripts.

The author(s) of the article sent the material for consideration by the expert commission established by the order of the Chairman of the Board-Rector of the Korkyt Ata University for the journal "Bulletin of the Korkyt Ata Kyzylorda University. Pedagogy and Psychology series". In turn, the expert commission checks the article for compliance with the rules of registration.

An expert opinion (for scientists whose scientific orientation corresponds to the content of the article) is issued by any scientist who is part of an approved expert commission. The expert opinion is a protocol (Appendix 1) and the opinion of a member of the expert commission, written and signed in any form and certified by the scientific secretary of the organization (Appendix 2).

After receiving the expert opinion, the author uploads (according to the instructions) via the website of the magazine vestnik.korkyt.kz scientific article, information about the authors compiled in three languages, annotations, expert opinion of the article. The expert commission determines the compliance of the article according to the profile of the journal, the requirements for registration.

The editorial board, under the guidance of the editor-in-chief, checks the articles submitted to the editorial office, their compliance with the scientific direction and decides whether to accept or reject the article.

The Executive Secretary checks the accepted articles in the Anti-Plagiarism program, after checking their compliance with the requirements specified in the technical design according to the instructions for the authors. (The requirement for verification in the Anti-Plagiarism program is fully set out in the Rules for Using the Anti-Plagiarism system.) An article whose authenticity exceeds 80% is sent for review.

The review procedure is carried out through an online system for submitting and reviewing articles through a "blind review" by a separate electronic site.

Reviewers are guided by the following rules:

- work in full compliance with the editorial policy of the journal, taking into account current legal requirements regarding libel, copyright, legality and plagiarism;
- not to use unpublished materials obtained from submitted manuscripts in personal research without the written consent of the author;
- comply with the review deadlines agreed with the responsible editors;

- notify the responsible editors and exclude themselves from the review process, who feel incompetent to review the research presented in the manuscript, or who believe that it will be impossible to review the manuscript as soon as possible;

- to treat any material received for review as a confidential document, not to disclose its content and not to discuss it with any persons other than responsible editors;

- to give an objective assessment of the materials submitted for review. Reviewers should express their opinion clearly and argumentatively.

- to draw the attention of the members of the editorial board, the responsible editors of the series to any significant similarities or coincidences between the manuscript in question and any other published work.

The review procedure includes the following stages:

1. The article is sent for review to a doctor of sciences, candidate of sciences or PhD, whose scientific specialization is closest to the subject of the scientific article.

2. The terms of reviewing the article may vary depending on the specific situation, but no more than 4 working weeks.

3. The reviewer may not be the author or co-author of the reviewed work, as well as scientific supervisors of applicants for an academic degree, PhD degree and employees of the department in which the author works. Reviews are discussed by the editorial board and serve as the basis for acceptance or rejection of manuscripts.

4. The review should objectively evaluate the scientific article and contain a comprehensive analysis of its scientific and methodological advantages and disadvantages. The review is compiled according to the standard form proposed by the editorial board (Appendix 3, table on the website).

The reviews should be briefly evaluated:

– general scientific level of work;

– title and its correspondence to the content of the article;

– relevance of the topic;

– scientific novelty,

– practical significance of the presented conclusions;

– work structure;

– the presence of controversial and/or incorrect provisions in the work;

– the positive aspects or shortcomings of the article are noted, what corrections and additions should be made by the author;

- the reviewer's opinion on the possibility or impossibility of publishing the manuscript is stated.

Copies of the review content are brought to the author(s) within a week after the editorial office receives the expert opinion.

The article sent to the author for revision must be returned in corrected form within 10 days with corrections marked in the article.

The editorial board reserves the right to reject articles if the author is unable or unwilling to take into account the wishes of the editorial board.

The original reviews are kept in the editorial office of the journal "Bulletin of the Korkyt Ata Kyzylorda University. Pedagogy and Psychology series", for three years, including for provision to competent authorities upon request. The expert opinion is a protocol (Annex 1) and an opinion of a member of the expert commission, written and signed in an arbitrary form and certified by the scientific secretary of the organization (Annex 2).

After receiving the expert opinion, the author uploads (according to the instructions) through the site of the journal vestnik.korkyt.kz scientific article, written in three languages information about the authors, annotations, and expert opinion of the article. The expert commission determines the compliance of the article on the profile of the journal, the requirements to the design.

The editorial board under the supervision of the chief editor checks the compliance to the scientific direction of the article submitted to the editorial office, and a decision is made on the acceptance or rejection of the article.

The responsible secretary checks the accepted articles in the program of antiplagiarism, after checking their compliance with the requirements specified in the technical design according to the instructions for authors. (The verification requirement in the program Antiplagiarism is fully described in the Rules of use of the system «Antiplagiarism».) The article, whose authenticity exceeds 80%, is sent for review.

The review procedure is carried out through the online submission and review system of articles, through «blind review» by a separate electronic site.

Reviewers are guided by the following rules:

- to work in full compliance with the editorial politics of the journal, taking into account the actual legal requirements regarding libel, copyright, legality and plagiarism;

- not to use unpublished materials obtained from submitted manuscripts for examination in personal research without written consent of the author;

- comply with review deadlines agreed with the responsible editors;

- notify the responsible editors and exclude yourself from the review process, feeling incompetent to review the research presented in the manuscript, or believing that a speedy review of the manuscript will be impossible.

- to consider any material received for review as a confidential document, not to disclose its contents and not to discuss with any persons other than responsible editors;

- to give an objective assessment of the materials submitted for review.

Reviewers should express their opinion clearly and reasoned.

- to draw the attention of the editors-in-chief of the series to any significant similarities or coincidences between the manuscript in question and any other published work.

The review procedure includes the following steps:

1. The article is sent for review to the Doctor of Sciences, the Candidate of Sciences or PhD, whose scientific specialization is most close to the subject of the scientific article.

2. The review period may vary depending on the specific situation, but not more than 4 working weeks.

3. The reviewer cannot be the author or co-author of the peer-reviewed work, as well as the scientific supervisors of the candidate academic degree, PhD degree and employees of the department in which the author works. Reviews are discussed by the editorial board and serve as a basis for acceptance or rejection of manuscripts.

4. The review should objectively assess the scientific article and contain a comprehensive analysis of its scientific and methodical advantages and disadvantages. The review is based on the standard proposed revision (Annex 3, table on the site).

In the review should be briefly evaluated:

- general scientific level of work;

- the title and its correspondence to the content of the article;

- relevance of the topic;

- scientific novelty,

- the practical significance of the presented conclusions;

Annotation. The living conditions in the world of today necessitate the involvement of specialists in the helping professions that can contribute to the effective resolution of a number of social and personal issues. In this context, the integrated approach to counseling is becoming increasingly important in practical terms.

Keywords: counseling, counseling approaches, “Keykis” method, integrated approach to counseling

Introduction. Counseling as an activity is based on a system of academic knowledge and practical skills, and it has asserted its place as a necessary and integral part of education and social practice.

Research methods and materials. Keykis counseling is a form of psychological support in which, as a result of the interaction between counselor and client within the counseling discourse, the client is provided with ideas about multivariate solutions to a problem he has posed [6].

Results and discussion. Similarities and differences between traditional approaches and Keykis counseling.

Conclusion. Keykis Significance and Application. Keykis counseling is a novel counseling approach that is based upon the best achievements of the counseling practice. Its methodological foundation is the case study method, which is used in all types of scientific research.
